ORDER-IN-COUNCIL

*"Then welcome each rebuff
That turns earth's smoothness rough;
Each sting, that bids nor sit nor stand but go,
Be our joy three-parts pain,
Strive, and hold cheap the strain;
Learn, nor account the pang,
Dare, never grudge the throe."*

THROUGH many years there has remained in my memory a picture, symbolic of the power, which not only endures hardships but makes use of them to create a thing of beauty. It was a mountain height in Northern Hokkaido that we reached after hours of stiff climbing in the scorching summer sun. The bleak summit offered no refreshing shade to weary travellers for not a tree was in sight. Wild flowers of many hues had delighted our eyes as we climbed, but there were no flowers here to grace the bare, black rocks. A snow field lay close by melting a little in the mid-day sun.

Suddenly in a tiny crevice of the bare rock, we came upon one miniature plant. It had one perfect blossom, a rosy heart-shaped flower with its deep drop of red—a Bleeding Heart! How had its seed come there? How had it withstood the sting of the cold on those bleak heights? Why had it not been withered by the rays of the scorching sun by day or chilled by the icy gale by night? Nothing could explain its presence, but there it was, breathing out fragrance and singing out a message to all travellers, "Courage! If God be for us who can be against us?" To this day the lesson learned from the fearless little blossom has remained through times of doubt and discouragement.

Here in mountain-locked Tashme we have found exemplified in daily living that same courage and perseverance, which triumphs over every circumstance. In the struggle for education difficulties have not been few. Our High School still lacks a home and consequently lacks the equipment which not only would enrich the curriculum and add interest and vitality to our daily studies, but also would enable us through recreation to build up greater physical strength. What patience has been required for the hours of study at night after the day's work is done. What striving to keep alert to the truth presented in your studies! How faithfully you have tried to do your preparation in the busy morning hours in your homes, or even at your places of work!

Again at school you have had to impose a stern self-discipline in the classroom, where teachers have been insufficient to aid you adequately in your efforts. These and other handicaps you have met with cheerfulness and courage. You are to be congratulated that seven of your number are qualified to graduate, some of them having worked their way through entirely by self-study. The school is proud of them.

Greater than any physical hardship has been the difficulty of governing our spirits. It is far from easy to keep hope alive after nearly three years of internment. There has been the struggle against discouragement, against uncertainty, against bitterness, as we have read of discrimination and prejudice. But in that struggle too, there has been the greatest opportunity to show courage, the courage which creates an unconquerable spirit of tolerance and forgiveness.

SA-YO-NA-RA

THE day of our graduation has come. During the past two years at Tashme High School, we have acquired a formidable weapon with which to fight ignorance, intolerance, injustice and hatred; a torch with which to blaze our path of life—secondary education. Our education, however, had to be fought for; we had to overcome all obstacles that at times, though not for long, held us back in our pursuit for knowledge and understanding; we had to study under trying and abnormal conditions. When we first evacuated to Tashme, there was no high school; there were no means of furthering education. But our diplomas shall prove that our struggle for higher education was by no means futile.

To Miss Greenbank, Miss McLachlan, Miss McBride, Mr. Best, and the commercial teachers, we are greatly indebted for leading us to graduation, for guiding us along the highroad of learning. To them, our kind teachers, and especially to Reverend W. McWilliams, the founder of Tashme High School, we extend our heartfelt thanks and appreciation for their assistance in our struggles and problems.

While attending Tashme High School, not only have we laid our foundation for our world to come, but also we have, at the Music Appreciation Hour, enjoyed fine music and learned to find depth and beauty in the masterpieces of great musicians; we have participated in sports activities and have learned to win nobly and lose gracefully; we have forgotten dull moments at socials, and have taken part in other extra-curricular activities. These have made school life a most pleasant and enjoyable one and have helped in no small degree to chase away those interior-town evils. Monotony and Loneliness. Through activities, we have learned the full value of co-operation, unity, teamwork, sportsmanship and etiquette, the essentials for success.

Time shall come when we will realize that our fight for secondary education was well worth the struggle, when we will truly appreciate what Tashme High School had done for us in our preparation towards facing the world realistically and in the earning of our daily bread. The school motto, "Constantia Omnia Vincit" will be our motto in our march along life's broad highway.

It is with reluctance that we bid farewell to our beloved school.

Yoshida, Charles

Mr. President of our Tashme High is also our first Graduate. He's studying Maths and intends to become a "big-shot" in a large office.

Yasunaka, Miyeko

Welfare Office worker who is willing to do errands. Whiz at Bookkeeping. Business Manager of the Annual. Goal: High business position.

Yamamoto, Fujio

Math holds no terror for him. Quiet and reserved. Represents Class 3 on the Students' Council. Works in the General Office and plans to continue his education "far a-field."

Oki, Mary

A Sunday School teacher and C.G.I.T. leader who intends to become a R.N. Vice-captain of Beta House and Social rep for Class T.

Mori, Reggie

Our one-time Council President. He revels in piles of homework. A S.S. teacher. Secret ambition: Business manager of a large firm.

Yamamoto, Kimiyo

Strictly musical, you'll always find Kimi humming the "latest." Loves dancing and she's full of smiles. Pet subject: French. Aspiration: Music teacher.

Kadonaga, Vic

Art Editor, responsible for our Annual cover and line designs. Cherished hopes: To run in the next Olympics. Captain of Alpha House.

PROCLAMATION

IN VOLUME TWO of the "Nisei Lycée" Annual, we have endeavoured to present an Annual with more informal personals and write-ups, but at the same time keeping the high standard of the literary section as set forth last year. We have strived for an overall improvement through the incorporation of fly covers, better layout, uniform sub-cuts and better make-up. Fly cover designs, sub-cuts and evacuation terms have been used where feasible, to create an evacuation theme—present and future.

Activities and clubs are still lacking greatly which prevents a more profuse write-up on the various recreations so common to an ordinary school. However, as we look back over the past year, we can look with pride on our achievements won the hard way. The School practically doubled itself in September, necessitating an increase in the teaching staff; the School was recognized by Victoria as a small private high school; and June will see seven students, the pioneers of our correspondence studies, proudly leaving their familiar halls of learning to face the world soberly, confidently, and honourably. We have endeavored to give you as concretely and vividly as possible the life and spirit which prevails in the hearts of the High School pupils in the Tashme Evacuation Camp. By combining the carefree with the serious, we have tried to publish a year book which you students may well be proud to possess.

As we go to press, another evacuation is looming before the distraught visions of the Nisei students. This time there seems to be little choice in the Government's alternatives. However, to you students who are still bewildered by the chaotic conditions of our world; to you students who have learned to take the slights and bear it with a grin; and to you students who have learned to make decisions the hard way—

Whenever you may falter,
Whatever you may do,
Wherever you may go,

remember Sir Henry Newbolt's inspirational poem,

"This is the word that year by year,
While in her place the School is set,
Every one of her sons must hear,
And none that hears it dare forget.
This they all with a joyful mind
Bear through life like a torch in flame,
And falling fling to the host behind—
Play up! Play up! And play the game!"

THE HISTORY OF TASHME HIGH SCHOOL

SEPTEMBER 5, 1944, saw the commencement of a new school term of the Tashme Correspondence Classes. With the advent of the newly promoted Grade Eight and Eight Seniors, the school enrollment increased to 165 students. To match the increase in the number of students, we were fortunate in gaining two more regular teachers, Miss K. Greenbank, B.A., and Miss W. McBride, M.A., besides the two teachers whom we had last year, Miss McLachlan, B.A., and Mr. Best, M.A. To teach the commercial course students, we secured the aid of six voluntary teachers. The arrival of Miss Greenbank heralded an important step forward in our organization of classes. The former Correspondence Classes disappeared to emerge as the Tashme High School. This was made possible by the fact that by regulations, if the teachers are qualified in the B.C. Standard Teacher's examination as set up by the Department of Education, the institution is recognized as a private high school. This meant that the pupils are no longer required to take the final Victoria examinations in June, because the teachers now have the authority to recommend students. Those taking Junior or Senior Matriculation must, however, continue to take their tests from Victoria.

We now have a school constitution, drawn up by the Provisionary Committee and passed by the student body. This constitution put into effect proportional representation in the Students' Council, that is representation according to the number of pupils in each class, rather than by the prefectory system, as was the case last year.

To promote school spirit, a contest for the best original school song was held. The contributions handed in were all good, but the final choice voted for by the students was the "composition" by Kazuo Kadonaga. This school song has become very popular among the pupils, and may often be heard around the buildings.

For better organization of sports and other extra-curricular activities, a house system has been developed. This system has, as yet, been applied only in the field of sports.

On January 27, the school was honoured by a visit from Dr. Gerald Switzer, Ph.D. A dynamic talker, he gripped the attention of his listeners with his informal yet vigorous speech on "The Attaining of Peace." "Trade, travel, self-preservation has brought people together since the beginning of man. This same process will, in time, unite the world as it united the tribes to become the city states." This was his driving theme in his address to the high school students. We are glad that we had an opportunity of hearing such a great speaker and hope that he will be able to pay us a visit again.

MIDORI SATO.

The Parent-Teacher Committee

EARLY in May, 1944, the first general meeting of the Parent-Teacher's Committee was held with an attendance of approximately forty parents. It was on the intent of expressing their appreciation of the efforts of the hard working teachers that these parents met, and out of this was formed our present P.T.C.

Our Challenge

FOR you, the members of the Tashme High School, there is the great mountain of Education, to be climbed. Night after night you take your step by step progress toward a richer and fuller meaning of life in this world. At times it is rather a hard and tiring climb, sometimes a sleepy one, for there are hardships you must undergo, that are not usual when we think of "going to high school." Among you are boys and girls who come to do their learning at night after a whole day's work—it may be said that that is a great gulf of ambition you span. In many ways do you have to overcome undesirable obstacles whilst you are climbing this mountain of Education, but there is your great opportunity to show your intrepidity; therein lies a light of the goal of your achievement. Many of us know naught if a thing can be or cannot be done, until we take a good grip upon courage and try it. Learning is wisdom; wisdom leads to success; any sort of accomplishment can be yours, if you are willing to try for it. So I say to you, prepare yourselves now and show us what a good and better generation you will contribute to our life!

MISS MARIE KAWAMOTO.

Parent-Teacher Association—Continued

This committee aimed to provide a base from which both the teachers and the parents could meet to discuss and improve the welfare of the students. The following five men were nominated to act as the executive committee for the first term:

Mr. S. Fukumoto, Mr. T. Nakamura, Mr. G. Nakayama, Mr. A. Ogaki, and Mr. S. Oka.

At that time, the High School consisted of 71 students out of 64 families, and the Teaching staff were Mr. Ernest Best and Miss May MacLachlan.

On the 18th of September, 1944, the latest meeting was held, and the present committee was nominated. With the advent of the Grade Nine students from the Junior High, the student body rose to 160 odd pupils with 122 families. To match this larger total, the committee needed to be increased. Consequently, it was formed of a representative from each Avenue. For 1st Avenue: Y. Morishita; 2nd: G. Nakayama; 3rd: Y. Yasunaka; 4th: A. Ogaki; 5th: S. Nishikawa; 6th: I. Hatashita; 7th: S. Yamamoto; 8th: M. Sakamoto; 9th: T. Yoneda; 10th: T. Nakamura; Boulevard: Z. Shin; Apartments: S. Oka. The Chairman of this Committee is Mr. G. Nakayama, and the Treasurer, Mr. T. Yoneda.

Class One Registrations

KAWASHITA, KUNIKO—"Kuni's" hope is to finish school. Teaches Grade I and at night, struggles with Social Studies and English. Has big innocent eyes and rosy cheeks (or is she always blushing?). Secret ambition: to be a great pianist.

MATSUMURA, MARTHA—Nicknamed "Massy," this future secretary works in the warehouse to earn her living. In her leisure moments, she's singing the "Hits," or else, with her enviable waves a-flying, fond of dancing and jiving.

NAGAI, SADDIE—Loves to dance and sing. Favourite pastime—baking "Martha Washington" pies. Favourite expression—"Gee, I'm hungry!" (do you blame her?). Did you know that she carries a big pair of scissors in her pencil box? Famous for her laugh.

OYE, MARY—A "school-marm"—quiet, neat and studious, who excels in sports. Loves all good music and baking. Hobby—crocheting and tatting. Secret desire—singing (whether she knows it or not).

SHIMIZU, AMY—This tall, pretty lass claims she misses window shopping; an inseparable pal of Josie's; loves waiting at the post office (wonder why?). A baking enthusiast. Dreams—private secretary.

SHIN, HIROSHI—Our tall gentleman famed for his draws. He prefers blondes to brunettes (who wouldn't?). Strictly on the smooth side, prefers waltz to jive—second only to Astaire. Interested in Judo.

YANO, JOSIE—Interested in good books, dramatics and sports. When asked about expectations, smiles demurely. Literary Editor and Associate-President.

Class Two Registrations

FUJINO, TOMOE (Strictly Instrumental)—The newest member of our well-assorted class. Older half of the "Fujino Musical Duet"; plays the violin, harmonica or the gramophone. He is taking a Diesel Engineering course from Hemphill, Vancouver. His present pastime is praying in Church. Hallelujah!

FUNAMOTO, JUNSO (My Ideal)—Junso—friendly, smiling, personable, is a man to watch—man of brains, man of action of whom God could well say, "This is The Man." He is a Sunday School Teacher, teaching his boys the Ten Commandments. Amen!

HAYAKAWA, MIKIO (I'll Walk Alone)—This tall, dark and handsome young man is sitting pretty as chief donkey engineer up at the "Y". Likes rugby, basketball and hockey. During dull hours, he listens to his large collection of "swing" music. Also studying maths.

INATA, GEORGE (Don't Be That Way)—This versatile all-round athlete is "the answer to a Maiden's (you know who?) prayer." Maybe his smooth dancing has something to do with it. He likes baseball best and he can throw a mean curve which fools the best. Studying maths for his own personal improvement.

IRIZAWA, KAZUO (I Don't Want Anybody At All)—Kaz, often called Smitty, is an extremely intelligent boy who is a wizard (?) at Science and Social Studies. During leisure hours, he will be seen taking and collecting (whose?). "Yeah, but in our shop . . ." is his pet quotation.

MACHIDA, GRACE (I Don't Want to Set the World on Fire)—A double chin and a round face marks this girl. "You're not funny!" is often heard from this little miss. Plays badminton, reads novels or comic and dances (well, who do you know?). She's some cook too (yum! yum).

NAKAMURA, YUKIO (I'll Be Seein' You)—The School's Robert Browning. Often dumbfounding the teachers with his unusually large vocabulary. Yukie is an ardent Scout and is often praised for his contribution to the First Tashme Boy Scout Troop. He likes collecting newspaper clippings during spare moments.

NISHIMURA, HIDEO (I Ain't Got Nobody)—"Shrimpy" as he is often called is an all-round sport, especially in playing baseball and hockey. Listens to B. Goodman's recordings to pass away his lonely time. Studying Automotive Engineering to enable himself to venture out into the world in the future. His rare (?) and comical (??) jokes make everyone laugh (Period).

OKURA, MARY—(Ain't Misbehavin')—This quiet young lady seems to be most successful with her English (homework always done). Her favourite pastime is reading, reading and more reading! Wants to be a poetess if she can make the grade.

SAKAMOTO, KATSUMI (I Can't Get Started)—This genial character, renowned as our Social Convener, is a master of Maths and Grammar (that's a Lie!). Keeps Miss Greenbank in fits of laughter with his witty remarks; is always heard whistling popular "hit" tunes.

SHINO, JAMES (Accentuate the Positive)—Our Annual Editor is another of those ardent Scout-masters who is working hard in that line for the welfare of our young boys. His chief interest in sports is playing hockey. He's taking a radio course from the States and hopes to become a Radio technician in the near (?) future.

SUMI, KIKUO (No Love, No Nothing)—"Buzz" is a mastermind at Maths, but takes keen interest in professional boxing and football. He wouldn't miss breakfast for anything. (Who would?). Can write a stiff examination in half the required time for an average student.

Class Three Registrations

ABE, FRANK (Porky)—A terrific "rug-cutter" and why not, after weighing 180 pounds? He turns the donkey crank-shaft which leads him to believe that he can tune an alto-sax.

EBISUZAKI, KANEY (Doc)—Hilarious laughter in the English class generally signifies another quip from this lad. To flabbergasted bachelor followers, he nonchalantly explains that he intends to become a good hubby. What a "san-shiro"!

FUJINO, SHIN—Our classical record devotee and violinist "par excellence"! Played in the last concert and claimed that the crowd made him nervous and shaky. It helped his "vibrato" anyways.

HATANAKA, TAKASHI—A brilliant student although he does not take active interest in school doings. He experiments with radio parts and whenever the parts go "pow!" he claims another bright idea for his own.

KADONAGA, GUS—For the innocent purpose of picture collecting, he hurries to the shoe-shop, his business retreat, from where he clicks and snaps the camera shutter at passing girls, femmes, damsels, and maidens.

KAGEYAMA, CHIKAO (Chicken)—This chap's quiet looks belie his dynamic temper. When the explosion occurs, it has the force of Joe Louis' Sunday punch. I wonder if this is his reason for wanting to become Billy Arnold the Second?

The ——— Kai-Ran-Ban ["Buzzin' around the school beat"]

AS usual, on Hallowe'en, pranksters were around. Although the High School students had to go to school, the night was not entirely forgotten. Some outsiders came prowling around "A" Building and caused some short-lived panics—that of pulling the switches of the school's lighting system; throwing mud into the halls; and throwing grass through the open classroom windows.

At recess, the students themselves put in a few licks of their Hallowe'en interpretation. There was the case of a boy who threw a firecracker into the Girls' Toilet, and scared the poor girls inside.

One night, the "A" Building was in an uproar owing to the stench of garlic. An enterprising boy (Kaz I.) had tried a novel experiment on smells by simply roasting a garlic on a stove. To make sure that his experiment would be successful, he went into the empty rooms and rubbed the roasted garlic on the desks so that everyone would get a sniff of the highly scented aroma. What a smell! The nauseating odour hung in the air for several hours.

Were the Grade Niners (the 9 A's) scared once! During recess, somebody (?) had stepped on a weak board in the room and fell through the floor. The culprit would not reveal himself to make amends. After school, the monitors and some boys and girls thought that they should replace the broken board. One girl went home for a saw; a boy for a board; and a girl for a hammer and nails. While the rest were waiting, some "bigshots" walked into the building. They came to look into the rooms. When the men glanced to the Grade 9 room, the boys and girls there thought that they were sunk. Apparently, the men did not say anything about the hole, because they left the building unconcerned about the matter. The students gave a deep sigh of relief when the men left. Soon the floor was patched as good as new. This incident has gone into the school files as an unsolved mystery.

It is amazing to know what steps people will take to obtain a seat! For instance, here is what happened at our social in March. It was a novelty dance in the form of musical chairs. The final stage was set—there were two couples ("Hippo" K. with Grace M. and Jim K. with Emiko K.) and one chair. The music stopped. There was a mad rush for the chair. Just as Jim and Emiko were about to sit down, "Hippo" pulled the chair away and the girl plopped to the floor, with a bang! Shamefacedly, "Hippo" trudged off the floor. He not only missed the prize but also suffered embarrassment.

This year, the Grade X boys started a fad around the school. Nearly everyone has an ocarina, "a sweet potato." Probably they got one to serenade their "sugar beet."

Once I saw "Sad" S. picking up a huge slab of snow. Questioning him as to what he was doing, I found out that he was going to put the snow in the stove, because their room was too hot. This reminds me of a story, as told by an Issei, about a roadcamp incident.

"After supper, all the workers would go to their bunkhouse and relax. As it would get chilly at night, someone usually started a fire in the warm stove. A certain Issei of the camp who could not stand heat had the top bunk of a double-decker bed.

"One night after supper, he climbed up to his bed and carelessly laid down to rest. The sun having gone down, a roaring fire was made. A short time later, he shouted to the people below to close the draft and to turn down the damper. Still finding the heat of the room unbearable, he told them to put out the fire. Since everyone else wanted the fire, they paid no attention to him. Irritated because everyone ignored him and because he was hot, he climbed down from his high perch and dashed a pailful of water into the stove. The action was so fast that his fellow workers did not realize what had happened until some time later. Thereafter, the workers in the bunkhouse understood his feelings and were cautious against over-heating the house."

From the above, it seems as though people are alike, no matter what their surroundings may be.

Annual Board meetings are not always drab or serious. To illustrate, I relate the following incident, which is of a lighter vein. The topic under discussion was the pictures to be put into the Annual.

"Let's have a picture of our school," exclaimed a voice.

"What school? This barn?"

"Of our night school. You know, have one whole page all blacked in, and underneath it print: 'Our Night School.'"

"Yeah, and for our day school, have a whole white page! Eh?" quipped back the other.

Other raw humours which popped up were also worth good laughs. The unexpected suggestion for our fly-leaf cover was to have a "leaf" of paper and to put a real "fly" on it! For the lino-cut for the Music Appreciation Club's section, there was the remark that a picture of a can, with some musical notes coming out of the lid, be used—canned music.

Remember in January when Mr. X was around our town? The boys had a chance to make a "hit" with their "chickadee" by escorting her home. Those girls who did not have escorts had to be satisfied by going home in large groups.

One night, when the last period was nearly over, a few students in Class I were talking about this Mr. X. They became tensely absorbed in the conversation. Suddenly, a girl gasped! She saw a man's face at the window.

Quickly opening the window, a boy asked, "What do you want?"

"Where's my daughter, ——?" blurted out the mysterious man.

"——, what?"

"———. It is her night to do monitor work."

"I'll go and see if she is still waiting," replied the boy.

Returning to the room, the boy told the man, "Your daughter went home with a group of girls about five minutes ago." The man faded into the darkness.

The Grade Twelvers relaxed from the suspense and talked about more personal thing.

Class Four Registrations

ANDO, TSUYUKO—Spends her leisure hours swing and swaying to the strains of her favourite, Glen Miller's orchestra. Regards becoming a housewife as her sole ambition. We know everything will be "ah righ'" for her.

ARAI, ARNOLD—Our dashing "Duke or Moronovia." Dances to the hottest tunes and yet is a wizard in Algebra—(lucky thing).

FUKUMOTO, WALLY—Our former Music Convener. An agile jiver, but an admirer of semi-classics. Aims at getting a homely (or comely?) wife. One with "knots and knobs," we suppose.

HATANAKA, HARLEY—

Wavy haired, this jitterbug, with a heart of gold,
Comical, but studious, wolfish, so bold,
He's broad-minded and pleasant, his smile refined,
Harley consists of those combined.

HORI, TATSUO—If speech is silver, he's a millionaire. Mischievously inclined, music loving, and another stage star, we hope—(that gift of acting shouldn't be lost!). Keeps our lessons from getting too dull, with his remarks.

IMAI, SHOZO—Works as a painter's apprentice. His burning desire—to repaint the Empire State Building. Enjoys playing indoor billiards and claims that modelling aeroplanes is lots of fun.

KADOGUICHI, SUMIE—Yearns for a summer cottage in Hawaii. Admits giggling is one thing you can't do much about (we've finally found someone who admits it). Hopes to collect Oriental music records after the war.

KADONAGA, KAZUO—

Classics, congas, rhumbas and jazz,
All are the favourites of Musical Kaz;
He's always known to be jolly and gay,
"I don't mind girls" is all he'll say.

KATO, TETSUKO—Our popular pianist. Can "tickle the ivories" with anything from the "Blue Danube" to "Don't Fence Me In." Favourite pastime—to watch people (any preference?) parade by the Apartments. Recognized by her "Hiya Glamazon!"

KAWASAKI, TADAO—Noted for his splendid physique. Is a P. E. teacher of the Tashme Elementary School. Has unique ambition of taking a honeymoon trip 'round the world. (Don't crowd, girls).

KOYANAGI, TATSUO—Known to all and sundry as "Hippo." Forms the other half of the duet to paint the Empire State Building. Fascinates the girls with his quiet and cool humour (and he knows it too!)

MATSUSHITA, IKUE—Skillful artist in her own line (just try her with a hook and thread). Creates lovely doilies and dainty laces in her spare time. Hopes to become a nurse, but may land up as someone's secretary.

MITOBE, CHIYOE—Interested in dress designing. Hobby—collecting dress styles. Pines to become a stewardess in an ultra-modern aeroplane. Loves the luxurious comfort of reclining on the bed and reading novels.

MORISHITA, KOJI—

Is he quiet? Is he smart? These we often hear,
And to answer these questions, we'll have to get near;
Does he think about girls? He won't say,
In his bachelor's life, he's quite happy and gay.

NAKAMURA, TOSHIO—Likes playing table tennis for recreation. His ambition—to become a radio technician with little work and high pay. Likes dancing (accompanied by bell(e)s?)

NAKAYAMA, TSUTOMU—

His favorite course is apple pie,
Has a girl in 9 who makes him sigh;
The gift of talking he does possess
He's quite a character, we must confess.

NISHIKAWA, RYOICHI—

Hails from Fairview, this friendly lad,
Energetic and intelligent in our class,
In judo and hockey he'll attract your attention,
But oh, oh! a bachelor is his ambition.

OGAPI, CHARLES—Hopes to make a name for himself in the sphere of electricity. Favourite expression—"She's no good!" Is an all-round sport and an energetic hiker.

OKA, RITSUKO—Otherwise known as "Ritzy." Inventing a rocket ship to Mars will take up her spare time in the future. Always has a sunny grin and a cheerful word for everyone.

OYE, ASAKO—A badminton fiend (when she gets the chance) but also an ice-skating fan. This lass from Mt. Lehman has a quiet voice but knows how to "swing" a tune "a la Dinah Shore."

SAITO, KIYOKO—An ex-Kits student who studies regularly. Always smiling and has a heavenly disposition. Tentatively thinking of becoming a French interpreter. (Now we know her favourite subject).

SASAKI, FUMI—

A faithful student, but a lover of jokes,
She's just as friendly to all the folks,
Actor Van Johnson, she does adore,
If it's news of Kits, she'll ask for more.

SATA, HIROKO—Known for her giggling. Dreams of visiting Mars (in Ritsuko's rocket ship?) Present ambition—to grow two inches taller. Is a faithful John Payne and Tatematsu Akira fan.

SATO, MIDORI—A student who's lots of fun and seems to have no worries even over exams. Dreams of doing some short-story writing apart from being a nurse.

SEA, SUMIKO—

This gal so energetic and gay,
Loves writing letters, and she will say
To become a hostess is her ambition,
Well, who wouldn't enjoy the sensation?

SUZUKI, TAYEKO—Called "Tyke" by her fellow playmates. Wishes to travel around the world if luck passes her way, to worship Ronald Reagan from a crowd. Loves collecting snapshots and spending idle hours reading or knitting.

THE TRACK MEET, 1945

THE outstanding event of the school term—the Inter-house Track and Field Day—was held May 24 on the new Elementary School Grounds. Beta House did the unexpected by gaining 57 points to cop the top spot, and thus scoring an upset and shattering all hopes of their more favoured rivals. Alpha House followed very close behind with 54 and Gamma House held third place with 42 points.

From the start to the finish, with Beta House comfortably holding the lead, it was either Alpha or Gamma for second place.

The cheer section gave forth their loudest—Alpha, decked in gold and black; Beta, in blue and white; and Gamma, in scarlet and white. The whole of Tashme turned out to roar with the students. The weather might have been dull but that didn't dim the excitement which increased as the afternoon wore on.

The meet opened with the singing of "O Canada." After remarks by Sports Convener Army Arai, a speech was given by the Principal, Miss Greenback. Adding humorous touches to the programme were the novelty races, "Sadie Hawkins Race," in which the gals chased desperate males and hauled them to the judges' stand, and the "Cracker-Eating Contest" for teachers when we found out the awful secret that Miss McBride couldn't whistle! Others were the Obstacle Race—a medley of skipping, crawling under ladders, hopping in sacks, and hurdling ropes, and a Marble and Spoon Race.

The School was honoured by a visit from Rev. and Mrs. Redman, Mrs. Ross and Miss Cantrille, all of Chillwack, and Major Lark, who were introduced by Rev. MacWilliams at half-time.

Following are the results of the Meet:

Jr. Boys' 75 yds.—1st, H. Wakabayashi, B; 2nd, T. Hayakawa, G; H. Nishihata, B.
 Jr. Girls' 50 yds.—1st, T. Sugiyama, A; 2nd, H. Matsui, B; 3rd, S. Nishihara, A.
 Sr. Boys' 100 yds.—1st, R. Nishikawa, B; 2nd, Hatashita, G; 3rd, T. Koyanagi, A.
 Sr. Girls' 75 yds.—1st, E. Kato, B; 2nd, F. Yanagawa, G; 3rd, M. Seto, B.
 Saddle Hawkins Race—1st, M. Nishimura, A; End, F. Yanagawa, G; 3rd, S. Seo, G.

Boys' Slow Bike Race—1st, Taguchi, B; 2nd, G. Nakano, A; 3rd, M. Seki, B.
 Teachers' Cracker-Eating Contest—1st, Mr. Best; 2nd, Miss McBride; 3rd, Miss McLachlan. (No points).

Junior Boys' Relay—1st, Beta; 2nd, Gamma; 3rd, Alpha.
 Junior Girls' Relay—1st, Gamma; 2nd, Alpha; 3rd, Beta.
 Senior Boys' Relay: 1st, Beta; 2nd, Alpha; 3rd, Gamma. (Gamma disqualified).
 Senior Girls' Relay—1st, Gamma; 2nd, Beta; 3rd, Alpha.
 Obstacle Race—1st, W. Takahashi, A; 2nd, J. Morita, G; 3rd, S. Omori, A.
 Spoon Race—1st, R. Miyata, A; 2nd, S. Nishihara, A; 3rd, T. Yamamoto, B.
 Junior Boys' High Jump—1st, H. Uchida, A; 2nd, M. Kakaumasu, G; 3rd, H. Tanaka, G.

Junior Girls' High Jump—1st, H. Matsui, B; 2nd, M. Uno, B; 3rd, H. Kawasaki, A.

Jr. Girls' High Jump—1st, H. Matsui, B; 2nd, M. Uno, B; 3rd, H. Kawasaki, A.
 Sr. Boys' High Jump—1st, T. Hatashita, G; 2nd, W. Takahashi, A; 3rd, V. Kadonaga, A.

Sr. Girls' High Jump—1st, E. Kato, B; 2nd, M. Sato, B; 3rd, M. Nishimura, A.

SABOTAGE! The cameras of amateur photographers catch students and places in rare view. (1) "Earth has not anything to show more fair. . . ." Our town basks in the morning sun. (2) Hold that pose! The sextette of Grade 12: Oki Matsumura, Yamamoto, Nagai, Yasunaka, and Oye, oblige the cameraman on the Boulevard. (3) "Hi-ya, Toots!" Mori and Kawasaki smile at Sasaki. (4) Brothers-in-arms; Nishimura and Yoshida on the 15-Mile Bridge. (5) Three slick-chicks on a fence; Oki, Shimizu, and Yano. (6) Tashme's Siamese Twins, Nikaido and Kawashita, think "all's right with the world." (7) A-lert! Award winners of the First Tashme Troop; Morita, Nishikawa, and Nakamura. (8) H-mmm, she IS nice! Matsumiya and Hayakawa admire the SHENERY.

Glimpses from the Track Meet: (10) Gamma House's banners proudly hang over her supporters. (11) A part of Alpha House during a tense moment. (12) Beta House cheer-leaders discuss the next yell. (13) Yano anxiously looks at the next contestant while feeding Principal Greenbanks, during the Cracker-Eating Contest. (14) Crawl, boys, crawl! Omori leads by a nose in the Obstacle Race. (15) "C'mon, Alpha, Number 7 next!" Cheer-leaders Watanabe, Kadonaga, and Shimizu harangue their section.

3. What incident in history do you want to see if you could go back in time?

Reign of Terror, Renaissance, Prehistoric Age, Cleopatra's Reign in Egypt, Samurais, Noah's Ark, Building of Pyramids, the Nativity, Lou Gehrig and his days, 1942—Stanley Cup finals between Toronto Maple Leafs and the Detroit Red Wings; 1941—World Series between the Cards and the Yankees—to see Mickey Owen's "boner", 1920—Seeing the first radio station KDKA, Pittsburgh, going on the air.

4. What do you miss in Tashme?

Private baths, cement side-walks, street cars and buses (lazy-bones!), neon signs, roller rinks, bagpipes (hoots mon!), window-shopping, soda fountains (ah! Ernies), juke box, beaches.

The Kai-Ran-Ban—Continued

When the H. S. Parents' Committee executives entered the hall, the behaviour of the students at the Christmas Mixer was certainly strange. The dancers rushed hurriedly to the other end of the hall and crowded themselves far into the corner. Even at that, there were less than half of the people present, on the floor.

While choosing the title for this column, there was the idea that it be called "The Cow-ran-barn." Anyways, it is original.

After hiking up to 22 Mile on our High School Excursion in early May, the students had different conceptions on "How to Enjoy Oneself." Some went up to the Copper Mine; a few hiked up the mountain; quite a number went down to the river shore; others were content listening to the emotional strains which poured forth from the two portable gramophones that were packed up to the rendezvous; a few had their cameras and took many pictures of interesting subjects; and there were those who were just tired and hungry.

I investigated the report that Teru T. had wasted a whole roll of film—not on girls but by letting a new roll slip from his hand while he was putting it in the camera—and found that it was true, for I saw the ruined, exposed roll. (Probably he was over anxious).

Some of the hikers suffered before reaching the place. Those people did one of the following: 1) took the new road and came to a dead end, 2) started late and were on the point of giving up hope of overtaking the vanguard and so they felt like turning back (some actually did turn back, 3) were tired and walked through the puddles to cool their aching feet, 4) were continuing ahead in agony only because their friends urged them onward.

With a confident conjecture, I say that everyone suffered on the return trip and was jubilantly glad to reach home. Another sure "bet" is that the students did (had) one or all of the following: 1) had blisters, 2) gave their "simmering dogs" a bath, 3) for once went to bed early.

Food for Thought: Who is Madame Shoo-Shoo? . . . Who received "two kisses" in front of the students? . . . Who gave those kisses? . . . Who is the Grade Niner who had a habit of dousing the lights during recess? . . . Who were "told off" by the girls this school year? . . . Who is the smoothest dancer in the school? . . . the best jitterbug? the best waltzer? the most improved dancer? the best beginner or rookie? the most sentimental ickie? . . . who was the boy in Class 3 who filled the room with sulphur fumes? . . . Who was the girl that just barely dragged herself into Tashme, when returning from our hike? . . . Which House had the best gaily decorated stand? the best cheers and cheer leaders? the most support? . . . Who were the unlucky boys (or were they lucky?) caught in the Sadie Hawkins Race? . . . Who said publicly, "——— second choice"? . . . Who went "ker-plop" in one of the races? . . . Who said that Beta House would come last in the Inter-House Track Meet? . . . Who can be nominated as being the ones who "went-to-town" to windup our memorable Sports Day on the 24th? . . . Who can estimate the glee that was in the hearts of those who were recommended? the quivers of those who had to write the government exams.

REGGIE MORI.

A NISEP'S INVOCATION

O CANADA! How often had I stood at ceremonies, parades and concerts to sing thy stirring anthem, feeling a tightening in my throat and chest as that mighty music surged within and around me!

WHERE PINES AND MAPLES GROW: the Pine so symbolical of steadfastness and protection to all who need it; the Maple with its promise of warm shelter and assured abundance.

GREAT PRAIRIES SPREAD where thousands of my brethren now have been removed thither—uprooted from what they had known as their only homes—to struggle through and to attempt a new life,

AND LORDLY RIVERS FLOW, from the familiar torrents of the Fraser to the slow stateliness of the St. Lawrence, in which even this very moment they are bathing wearied limbs;

HOW DEAR TO US, who had been taught thy way of life—and thine only,

THY BROAD DOMAIN, FROM EAST TO WESTERN SEA. Yea! so spacious and far reaching, so rich with undeveloped power and industries, yet so unfair to us, thy own children by birth;

THOU, LAND OF HOPE FOR ALL WHO TOIL, who dream, who pray, thou once mad'st a covenant with my father when he came over from another land, full of trust, expectation and desire. Whither now? Am I also to be excluded from thy care?

THOU, TRUE NORTH STRONG AND FREE, accept a neglected son; give him a fresh start, for he is in desperate need of truthful reassurance! Whatever has gone before can never be altered. Mar no further the pages of thy proud history!

O CANADA! GLORIOUS AND FREE! Thou art ever a part of us; we a part of thee. Deny us no longer anything of thine!

WE'LL STAND ON GUARD, WE'LL STAND ON GUARD FOR THEE! If thou would'st only open thy motherly arms to accept us and lighten our uncertain path with thy benevolent smile. Then, once again will we have cause to sing exultingly, with strength renewed and confidence restored:

O CANADA, WE STAND ON GUARD FOR THEE!

NEED RACE BE A BARRIER?

"GOD created all men equal," but what vast territory lies between the white and the coloured man! A territory so vast, that in it is built a barrier so wide and so high, that few men have ever struggled across that barrier to live freely on both sides. Racial prejudice, which springs from this barrier, unlike it, has no barriers and obeys no boundaries—certainly not geographical boundaries, for it is found in crowded metropolises, as well as in spreading plains of the prairies; in small fishing hamlets, as well as in rude lumber camps—certainly it knows no social barriers, for it dwells in the heart of the proud aristocrat as well as in the heart of the lowly peasant; it eats the soul of the opera singer and the farmer, the capitalist and the proletarian—certainly it has no time boundaries, for it was there in the Greek and Roman Empires, the French Revolution, the Napoleonic Wars, the First World War and it is also in this war. Racial prejudice has fanned the fires of every war, past and present—and future (?)—certainly it has no age barriers, for it is there in the jeering taunts of the five year old's "Aw, you Chink!"; in the prejudicial remarks of the twenty year old's "the ol' Japs!"; in the querulous words of the ninety year old's "houmph, a Jew eh?"

What is racial prejudice or racial intolerance? It is the judgment without due examination of the abilities or customs of other races, and the refusal of the power races to pass on to the minority races what rights or gains they possess, fused together with petty jealousies and rivalries in the business and economic fields. It is wrong to blame the White man for all the racial prejudices. We, the coloured folks, the Negroes, the Chinese, the Japanese, the Indians must take our share of the blame, for we too, have sheltered race prejudice in our hearts. I often think that perhaps one of our faults was that we didn't cry out loud enough when they bled us through various Bills and Acts; we didn't cry out—we only wept in silence. The politician began to think that we weren't like him and his brothers, who would shout and squeal at the slightest pinch; he thought that we didn't suffer the same dismal depths of despair, the same heights of joy, the same flood of love and the same grief of death. The politician began to regard us like a machine the capitalist owns, something out of which to make money, something to which demands could be made but given only food enough to work on, something to be employed but only to his advantage.

Need Race be a Barrier? Indeed not, most people will answer when asked this question. Then why is it? I can quite easily remember the embarrassment I used to suffer when asked by a white friend or teacher, "What do you want to be?" What do I want to be? Lawyer? Doctor? President? Prime Minister?—oh, what heights! Or perhaps as the question should have been asked, "What can you be?" Store clerk? farmer? fisherman? proprietor of a grocery store? What accounts for this difference in the dreams of youth? You have only to look at his face—it is not white is it? It may be yellow or red or black, but it is not white. Why must people be condemned because of race? Why, like the lepers in Jesus' day, are they forced to shout "We are unclean! We are unclean!"

with their faces; with their skins? Why must race hang like a dreaded disease on them? Why? Is it right? No! O, what vast territory, what real opportunities, what rich talents, what gigantic powers, what deep loves and friendships lie lost in racial prejudice!

Where can be found the cure to the headaches and the heartaches caused by racial prejudice? Here I repeat the old proverb, "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure." Therefore, let us seek the prevention by erasing any racial prejudices, however small, however harmless it may seem, that might be lurking in our hearts, so that when we leave Tashme, we can go up to the brown boy from the plains of Araby, the yellow girl from the shores of the Yangtze River, the white boy from the highlands of Scotland or the wheat fields of the Ukraine, the black girl from darkest Africa and say, "Brother, Friend, Fellow-Citizen!"

CHALLENGE TO YOUTH

LIFE in the world today is a challenge to Youth. Clear is the clarion call to arms for the defence of one's country, but louder still is the call of Nature to those who listen for it. Men were not born to kill or to be killed, but to leave something behind them which will live on in the world as a contribution to man's well-being. In every country, there are statues set up for great men, but the greatest monuments are those of the creators, the scholars and the scientists. Famous though Napoleon's name is, far more revered is that of Pasteur's. Any contribution to civilization cannot be barred from the world or be confined to one country. It is accepted as a blessing to be enjoyed by all. The duty and privilege granted to each of us is to work for the betterment of our world. No man has the right to deprive another of this privilege. Yet knowing this, how can racial prejudices exist?

Basically, all men are brothers "under the skin." It isn't the colour of our skin or hair that counts; it is the "stuff" that is in us, the "stuff" which gives us the courage to say, "Things are difficult now, but if I keep on trying, I'll reach my goal some-day, because I know that what I am working for is right." At best, the way isn't easy-going. Sometimes, it hurts less to take the slights lying down. Thus, some have given up the struggle for racial equality. However, it isn't only the ones who go out and preach equality who succeed; it also depends on us who are left behind. We must really believe within ourselves that all men are created equal. Only then are we ready to work for that end, in our own small community.

Do men who hope for lasting peace really believe that war can bring in its aftermath, the peace they desire? War to bring peace; armed force to create fellowship among men? It is only with real fellowship that peace can come into the world. The method of peace backed by force has been tried and it has failed. Peace wasn't won thousands of years ago when the first war was fought; it wasn't won in 1918 in "the war to end wars." We have broken our pledge to those countless men who died so that the rest of us might enjoy their fruits. If those men could come back, I wonder what would be our excuse to them for this war? They certainly did not sacrifice their lives to bring another world disaster in twenty years. We still have a world rife with racial hate and economic jealousy. War does not destroy the heart of the trouble, it only removes the evidence. It is as if we had killed the worms ruining our plants, only to leave its eggs behind. Peace must come through mutual understanding; understanding which will ripen into brotherhood. If men respected each other, they would never be able to kill. Misunderstandings there are bound to be, for this happens even in the best of families, but surely these can be settled between brothers!

A world without racial barriers would mean a world in which men are equal. It would mean a world in which people of all nationalities would have an equal chance of proving themselves worthy citizens; it would mean that one would not be refused anything because of the colour of his skin. No one can understand the heartbreak of racial barriers until one is the victim of it; nor can one feel the discouragement that comes when one is told that Canada is a "White man's land"! Those who are living under similar circumstances know the surge of futility that seems to engulf us on occasions. Yet we can still see the light of a better world ahead. True, this is so dim sometimes that it is almost obliterated, but the vision will never die completely. It will always be there to lead us on when opportunity arises. At the present, all we can do is to get as much education as we can. At times, I feel as if all this studying is in vain, but I know that later on, I will be grateful for the firm foundation I am building now.

Need race be a barrier? There are no racial barriers to life or death, why should there be any between men? These hindrances are built by man only. God, who is infinitely greater than the greatest of men combined, loves as His children the darkest little pygmy and the fairest child. How much more should men love men, their brothers and equals!

This is the call to Youth, to work and to build together a deeper understanding in the world today, to realize a better and brighter world tomorrow.

AT THE HEART OF THINGS

SINCE the advent of human creatures on this earth, conditions, environmental or otherwise, have created in people a sense of antagonism towards others, as well as to other things. Antagonism cannot appropriately be called "good" or "evil," but the breach created is evident. History has shown that people will fight for their "rights" no matter how ignorant they are. Yet, if we go back to time immemorial, we can say that nationalism and the idea of superiority are absurdities. However, today we have nations and those who call themselves "superior beings." Surprisingly, deep down in these "superior beings," they know or should know that their sense of superiority is a split-second emotion and nothing more. The unfortunate thing is that the "nothing more" does so much damage. "How equal are human beings?" I maintain that human beings are equal in all respects. The basic needs—food, clothing, shelter, transportation, are the same throughout the world. We all need them, irrespective of the amount.

Twenty-eight

Let us take a glimpse at "intellectual communion"—first, government. In this realm, we have heard in theory and seen in practice, such terms as Communism, Democracy and Fascism. It is certain that these various forms of government differ in political, economic and social aspects, but basically they reach the same position for this reason—these diverse forms of government were installed by groups of people who attempted to satisfy the nation as a whole. For example, one nation might decide upon democracy while another does not. Why is this? Most likely the answer will lie in the country's economic and "superior being" conditions. Economically, this certain country might be in a state of destitution, yet there is the "heartening feature" of the "superior being" left from history. They are the people who are the most responsible for improving their country at large, even though at expense of others. This has been done repeatedly and continually throughout history. In these cases, we blame the aggressors, but in truth all nations are to blame. Thus, we note that not only is the government an institution to satisfy the people and the nation, but also, a thing of contempt and admiration in relation to groups and nations. At this point it is well to realize that "Democracy" can be imposed readily upon a nation as can Fascism or Communism though it is well to note that there is a sprinkling of each in every form of government.

Religion again may cast equal ballots in the light of this theory. All religious faith to my mind is basically the same, although they may differ in doctrine. In any religion, the only thing to be critical about is conduct. Religion and moral conduct are essentials, not luxuries. Whether a person belongs to a different religious sect does not matter, so long as that persons "knows" what he is doing.

Racial differences create a very confusing situation and many individuals and groups take advantage of this confusion. A person may have varying amount of pigment in his skin, his outward physical make-up may be different from yours, but basically what is the real difference between various races? "None, whatsoever!" is my reply. We must admit that we all react to stimulus, that we have emotions and passions and that we all have experienced agitation in our minds. Sometimes, a sense of superiority crops up in our minds. How does this happen? It happens to many educated and uneducated people who are in a favorable position which is their only strength for their supremacy. The educated person who advocates racial superiority really knows his business, for he is informed on world events. This creed is not confined in itself, as it involves something greater and harmful to mankind—that of racial antipathy which haunts the world.

From the "Control Tower," that light flashes out the following message: "You are not distinguished by race, you are distinguished by your ability to live the life of a man and not that of a demagogue." Scientific truth says that all men are created equal. Truth is mighty and will prevail—that equality is at the heart of things is an apparent truth. We can do something about it when we act on the basis that it is "better to give than to receive." We need mutualism, and more!

NEED RACE BE A BARRIER?

THOUSANDS of years have elapsed and regardless of the tremendous changes the world has undergone, the evil that has crossed the path of the first man still prevails in our society. Yesterday it worked behind the clans, the tribes; today, it hides behind the races. Our world is completely filled with similar evils, all from the same source disguised in different clothing. These are the things that are to be understood and reprov'd, not to be ignored or feared. An attitude of disregard will only bring on a future crisis while our facing of it will unfold the road toward a better world.

We may say that the outstanding cause of our senseless contortions which are so common within our societies is the product of fear. This emotional disturbance unless readily purged will inevitably result in chaos and personal perdition, thereby endangering man by the probability of degenerating into stagnation. This was the condition in preceding ages, when superstitions and witchcraft encroached upon the minds of the people.

Wasn't it only yesterday that men refused to believe that horseless wagons could travel at the incredible speed of fifteen miles per hour? Such fantasy was an absurdity. Wasn't the world bewildered at the wild prophecy of aeroplanes? Such imagination! We today underestimate the benefits that can be derived from racial equality, hence, in like manner we are hindering the introduction of another epoch in history.

There lies the answer to the "gone-too-far alienation" between races in our modern times and the consequent discrimination and prejudice. It is claimed that the root of all our prejudices is located in our ignorance, yet it seems almost unbelievable that men in this creative world should be living on such insupportable ideas.

It is quite obvious that Canada has created a national humiliation in her Japanese Evacuation movement and has been discriminatory to many Japanese-Canadians on the ground of racial differences. Our condemnations in the press have caused much emotional intimidation on both sides. Such existing iniquities are really a blow at democracy. All these demonstrations have not been the movement of military necessities as has been claimed, but have been acts of economic jealousy, fear, and color discrimination to exaggerate the prejudice.

To this day we have judged people on the basis of superficial characteristics such as color and culture—the basis from which nationalism has arisen. But now with rapid means of communications and the need of interdependence in the world, the time has come to achieve new understandings; to judge man, who-ever he may be, by his beliefs and by what he intends to attain or to contribute to his society.

This issue that confronts the democratic nations demands first hand care and unless it is wisely settled, how can this very nation expect to undertake the tasks of postwar peace which will involve the fate of numerous races?

The ideas derived from the misunderstanding between races illustrate man's fear of the future because of his inability to digest its outcome; it befores our sound judgment and uses our energy. Evidently, all this leads us to believe that fear is the greatest enemy of mankind. However, the converse is true. For it is this sensation of fear, our Creator's gift to us, that has brought us to the present level for it creates a defiance in men, who equally possess the power to frustrate it. It is in this struggle that we prove ourselves.

The minority races have always been denied the natural rights that democracy promises. They are barred from social life; their livelihood is threatened by insecurity. All this has caused the minority group to accept a fixed pattern of living. As a result, the living standard in the working class of the majority group in certain industries is also threatened. This discontent naturally causes uneasiness in the communities as in the case of the B.C. coastal regions. The shrewd politicians who must suppress this discontent shift the blame for this on to the minority group in order to save their positions. Hence the hatred toward the minority group is intensified until a fixed picture of the condemned group is formed. This fixed conception of the minority handicaps them; consequently they group themselves together for mutual dependence which makes them conspicuous in societies as a whole.

The abolition of racial hatred must be achieved if democracy is to progress toward its goal. It cannot be abolished by political bills alone, but must be wholeheartedly started from within each individual.

THE REAL LIFE

OUR world today is a war-stricken, miserable world. Many people did not think that conditions such as exist today could ever come to our "civilized" world, and others still do not realize what is going on outside of their homes. This barbarous world is supposed to be "civilized." If this is the case, why are soldiers on the battlefronts slaughtering each other ruthlessly like the wild animals of long ago? If the people who are behind these wars could see the events taking place all over the world, they would soon try to stop wars.

If a television broadcast could be made to show scenes from all over the world, people would be able to get views of the "real life" which are being borne by most people. It would show the front lines of the battlefields where men are being blown to pieces by the thousands. As the dial is turned, we would see the helpless people of bombed cities and villages being murdered at the hands of the enemy. In such countries as Greece, India and Italy, we would see the major portion of the starving population roaming through cities looking for food and clothing. As they walk, hundreds of them will be seen to fall faint in the streets.

Imagine what it would be like if we had nothing to wear to keep us warm except some rags or a dead soldier's coat? What would we do if we had nothing to eat except dead horse flesh and nothing but filthy water to drink?

Why is mankind so blind as to allow all these miseries? Why cannot we unite for a common cause and bring happiness and prosperity to all the world?

Many people will ask the question, "Well, what can we do to make this a decent world?" The answer to this is, "Plenty!" It is not entirely up to the "big shots"; it also depends upon "us," the common people. We are the ones that can help to make this world a decent place. All of us must make this our goal and carry out everything possible to help bring this condition about. We must do away with racial prejudice and discrimination so that we can all work together as one group. Some people may ask the question, "But where shall we start to carry out our ideas?" The answer is, "In our everyday life." We must respect each other, our friends and our enemies; we must be kind to those who hate us and must try to promote good feelings. Even though our skin is yellow, it does not make the least bit of difference. We must consider each other as brothers and sisters in one big happy family. Every little action counts. If in school we are continually quarrelling with our friends, then we are not helping to improve the conditions which exist. Some pupils may ask the question, "What has education got to do with the problem?" Through our education we can get the knowledge of right living. It is those who are educated that are going to progress because they will know "how" to live with other people.

I trust and pray that the day of world peace and brotherhood will soon come to our world. Let us do our bit in our everyday work and school life to make "our world" a better, happier and prosperous place in which to live.

ARNOLD T. ARAI

Arnold and his wife (just married) stopped at a hotel for lunch, where the manager was over-attentive. For the tenth time he sailed up and said, "And what would you have now, sir?"

"Some honeymoon salad."

"You have me there, sir. What does it consist of?"

"Just lettuce alone."

AMBITION AT THE CROSS-ROADS

"EVERYONE has ambition, but of what value is it, if it is not worked out to reality? Don't just think of it—work for it!"

Kenji knew that all his friends had ambitions for they had talked of becoming engineers and electricians. Ambition—that was the thing which was driving and encouraging him in his high school studies! It always followed people wherever they went. Ambition lived in Kenji's heart, but, there were periods when he feared something. He knew that his hopes had diminished after coming to the evacuation camp. Certain conditions discouraged him. There was no hope of going to higher schools on the coast—true, there was the East with its better possibilities, but, that was another place. In the East, there were fears and uncertainties, racial discrimination widespread in this country, prejudice already imposed upon the evacuated people, and the disadvantages owing to the colour of our skins, these were the things that discouraged him. Only few had really succeeded there. These thoughts fogged his mind. Sometimes he believed there was no possibility of taking even the first step toward realizing his ambition. But, there always lived the world of Hope to which Kenji could resort. Even if his ambitious spirit dulled, he could at least hope. Hope—there was always hope!

One day, when the sun had travelled about a third of the way across the sky, his mother returning from shopping, said:

"Here's a letter from your friends in Toronto."

"Toronto?" Ken muttered from among his Algebra papers.

"Yes," she replied, handing the letter to him.

"Oh, it's from him," Kenji mumbled.

He opened the letter and began to read . . .

"Dear Kenji,

"It's good to hear from an old friend. Thank you very much for the letter of . . . which I received a few weeks ago. I hope that everybody is getting along well.

"As for myself, I'm still working at the same plant. I guess that's where I belong for the duration of this war. My parents are doing okay out here.

"You wrote that your hope-to-be (ambition of becoming a doctor) is growing dim. 'Cause of present conditions? Ken, it is true that we Niseis are suffering many hardships and prejudices during this war and there seems to be no chance of getting ahead. But Ken, we were born this way—we were born to struggle. We came into this world to be battered, to be knocked about and to struggle. This is the trial of our life. Ken, have courage—not the kind with which to fight and fulfill your own selfish desires, but the strength to tackle your own life—not anyone else's. You know, people don't get anywhere in this world as long as they are wondering whether the world is going to hurt them or not. Fortitude and courage are the only things we have with which to battle our life—a life of struggle, toil and torment.

"I think that you are fortunate to be able to continue your high school studies there, with the kind teachers. Seize your first opportunity to achieve what you want to be.

"Have patience and endurance; that's what everyone requires in this world. Work for your ambition if you wish to have it. Work for it with every confidence in your own strength . . ."

"Courage," Ken mumbled, "courage, that might be the thing that I'm lacking, which is causing this fear and uncertainty. Patience and endurance, courage and fortitude; that's the need of everyone today in order to work for his ambition with every confidence in his own strength!"

With this message fresh in his mind, Kenji knew that now he could face the road ahead without flinching.

IF THIS WERE MY WORLD

IF THIS were my world, and if I could change the prejudice in people's hearts, I would try to make them understand that all people were created equal. In times like these, we Niseis here in Canada have felt the racial discrimination of others living in this country.

There is one question in our hearts today. Need race be a barrier? Or, is this war now being fought for freedom of speech and worship, freedom from want and fear? There must be more people like our loyal friends who write such comforting letters of sympathy to us, reassuring us that even a war cannot come between true friends. If they only knew how much their letters mean to us who were parted from them and were forced to begin life anew in a place so different from our former homes. Only those who have been in the same position can know how we felt: growing up without any feeling of inferiority, then suddenly hurt by stinging words, finally forced to evacuate because of this war. We are comforted by the hope that soon we may return to our former homes, wiser and more understanding of the needs and sufferings of others because of the difficulties through which we ourselves have passed.

Will we be met with prejudice and discrimination, once more barred from a rightful place in the land of our birth? Or, will we be met with sympathy and understanding? We Niseis are anxiously awaiting the close of this war, for the end of this struggle will answer our question. If this were my world, there would be no need to wait for an answer and far less need to ask a question such as the one that is in our hearts today. May we find what we are hoping for—racial equality and a really true love instead of prejudice and discrimination.

OUR TROUBLES

AS THE days pass by, fear increases in our hearts. Why do we have this misgiving? How is it created? Many people ask themselves this perplexing question over and over again. We might say that it is created by lack of confidence and faith in ourselves. But, every human being must have that faith in order to live a good, successful and a happy life. Even our greater men are beset with fear. This condition is created chiefly by trying to escape certain crises which must be faced and solved. If we don't overcome them, we are bound to face the same crises again with greater difficulties.

The Japanese people, gathered into groups, have been sent to far mountain sides, away from the sea and homes we love. We are hoping that we will be able to get out of these places and to do what we were doing before the evacuation began. This evacuation was caused principally by fear; the white people thought that the Japanese, living in the coastal areas might aid the enemy in the case of an invasion of this country. If they had had confidence in themselves as they have in winning this war, there would have been no Japanese evacuation. Such treatment has caused much bitterness in the evacuees.

But another question arises. What will happen to us even though we might be able to move out of this place? There is certain to be some antagonism between the Japanese and the white people. The worry of the Japanese would be that they might be boycotted, bullied and ridiculed, at some time or other. The distrust in the white people, springing from their treatment towards us would be that this treatment might cause us to look for some means of revenge or sabotage. They had envied the Japanese people because of their success in fishing and farming in the past years.

The Niseis worry about what will happen to them after the war. We have heard rumours and stories that Japan does not want us to return there. And, in this country many white people do not approve the idea of the Japanese staying in Canada. Now, what can we do? We haven't any place to go. It seems as if this world doesn't want us! I have been trying to reason why Japan doesn't want us, for we are of the same skin and physical appearance. My answer is that they are apprehensive of our ideals. We have had more freedom in this country. The Japanese government suspects that we might put the idea of freedom into the minds of the Japanese people and that we might demand more freedom as in Canada, perhaps to a greater degree than is possible.

Our fathers and mothers are troubled about their sons and daughters who are separated from them on account of this war. Most of our parents ask these questions in their minds—What are they doing? What's happening to them? Are they dead or alive? And the parents all hope that they will be able to have the family reunite in the near future.

The question of fears and hopes will surely arise when this war is over. Unquestionably, the victorious countries will say, "Ah! now we have won the war" and start to boast and ridicule the unfortunate losers. This will cause hatred because the rest will fear what the victors will do next.

I hope that in years to come we will have a better understanding amongst people who would not distrust one another but who would get together and discuss problems. I hope that all the troubles now before us will be solved with equality; everybody sharing their ideas, not one nation's, but all nations.' Then, I know that we will have a better understanding of each other in this world.

TATSUO KOYANAGI.

A Relocee Views the Post-War World

A MATTER of vital importance to all is the matter of our post-war world. To the Neseis, it is more than just another "League of Nations," another "World Court," it is the world in which we will make our homes; it is the course of life which we will follow. As Geneva proved, international organization in one field of security, namely, international politics, is not enough. Thus the problem of maintaining peace begins at a lower level than arms limitation or setting up of a world court to try aggressors. It starts at the functional level; the level of ordinary everyday occurrence within each nation. If our system of law and order cannot operate within our own nation, the chance of its operating between nations is exceedingly light.

Since 1941, we Niseis have become "a political football" to be kicked by anyone and everyone who feels like doing so. We have become victims of circumstances, and the passage of certain legislation may effect our freedom or bar us from the life we have been leading. It is no longer a problem of several thousand people of Oriental origin; it has become a problem of "our way of thinking"—of our ideology and the future of all mankind.

It is important that we realize what is happening. Millions of men are in an armed conflict, perhaps for territorial and economic opportunities, but also for ideologies. There are those who would scorn the intelligence of the common man and who believe in the manifest destiny of the master race fighting against those who believe in the moral worth of each individual and the rights of all persons regardless of race, colour or creed.

Unfortunately, the carriers of the fascist disease are not confined to Axis nations alone; there are many here posing as "super-patriots" and fanning the flame of hatred. Many feel that coloured people lack the mental qualities necessary to build great civilizations and that therefore the light-skinned people must take the lead. Modern science shows that these notions are unfounded and false, but the assumption still continues to exist in the popular mind. Others believe that living is a matter of each individual or a group looking after its own interest. The idea is "Kill him or he may kill you." Such a system is not conducive to co-operative living and cannot last without strife.

Therefore, the attack for the status of the Niseis is part of a larger struggle. There are on the one side, those who believe in democratic doctrines who are doing everything possible to give to the Niseis an equal opportunity. On the other side, there are those exponents of racial hatred who are trying to spread the gospel of racial superiority. The treatment of the Niseis is then a crucial test case which may determine whether or not Canada is to accept a true democratic ideology. It seems that the only salvation for the Niseis or for anyone in a racial minority is to throw off the narrow interest of local and personal problems and to join in the larger battle for a better world. The Niseis must try to lose their identity, which they seem unwilling to do, and must take part in a united effort to reconstruct the world along lines that are more conducive to peaceful and co-operative living. We cannot take part in a sincere, all-out drive for democracy if we ourselves are to foster any fascist ideas. By being prejudiced against others, we are contributing to our own self-destruction. Therefore, we must start in our own backyards by getting rid of our own prejudices against people of other races and creeds. True, this will not be an easy task and we will have many enemies and obstacles. But the fate of all Niseis, of all racial minorities, in fact of all humanity, rests in this ultimate triumph.

Let us not be misled by over-zealous super-patriots, but let us actively support those who are sincerely working for a free world—a world free for all!

My Hobby: What It Means to Me

THE word "hobby" means one's favourite pursuit or pastime. Reading a book could hardly be a hobby to some, but since it is my favourite pastime, I, myself consider it a good hobby.

Reading means to me a period of blessed solitude wherein one is thrilled by an "eerie" mystery story or an exciting "Western" novel. Some people might argue against reading by saying that it is a lazy habit and you wouldn't get anything from it and that practical experience is better. But however, what benefits you receive from a book depends on what type or subject of the book you are reading. I find present day "best seller" novels very interesting and found that most of these novels illustrate to us a present day world of hard struggling, humble poor people. "A Tree Grows In Brooklyn" and "How Green Was My Valley" are some outstanding examples of these novels. Still those classics of old I find are the best, for they give us the description of those days, of the people, and surranging of those days. There are many outstanding classics, among these are "A Tale Of Two Cities," "Life and Letters of Benjamin Franklin." Indeed one would find almost all of great men: scientists, statesmen, doctors, professors, and their thoughts and discovery expressed through books.

I am anxiously looking forward to having our school library, then we will be able to extend our benefits of reading to other students.

"I know, but censored burning my wick!"

"Ooh! What a Beautiful Model!"

DEAD silence . . .

The guarded muttering of " $x^2 \div y^2 = . . .$ " drove the first wedge into this quietness.

Another period of discreet silence.

This time, a little louder came the voice of Julius, our big man with the soft voice, "Hey, Deacon, let's see that."

"O.K., O.K.," came the staccato reply. "Wait until I see it first."

" $x^2 \div y^2 = . . .$? What's that you got there Shrimpy?" asked the surprised voice of G.I. Joe, our erstwhile Einstein of Class 2.

Thus, the portals of peace and stillness were thrown wide open and another bull-session had started during class hours.

"Gee, look at that style!" piped in Paul, our dynamic brain-trust.

"What do you know about style anyways?" came the reproachful voice of Torp, the Smitty.

"Who do you think you are to criticize my likes and dislikes? Namaika-utara-horu-do," pugnaciously retorted Paul.

"Oi, so-okoru-na-yo," admonished Isaacs with a chuckle. "Let's see that Kentucky," and so saying, Tashme's Harry James walked over to Shrimpy's desk.

Heads bent over the picture of the controversial model, taking in her beauty, naturalness and grace.

"Woo-woo!" "Whee-we-w-w-w!" "Yeah man!" "Baby!" "Boy-o-Boy!" "Well, blow me down!" "Can you beat that?" were the surprised and awed exclamations of the gazers. "Gosh! I wish she were mine," wistfully voiced Yehudi.

"Oh, come on Hot-iron, she's too good for you," joked Paycheck.

"Yeah, maybe, maybe," reflected Yehudi.

"Gee, look at those proportions, um, um!" chimed in the usually quiet Lexi. "Just perfect! That's the type I like; one hundred ten, streamlined, good for hot or smooth dancing."

"Brasso had it," replied Dean.

"Where did you get the pic from?" queried Benard.

"Yeah! well what do you know Joe?" exclaimed Archie. "Hey Brasso, do you intend to obtain one?"

"Well, if I'm lucky. Wish we all the luck, will you, fellows?" asked Shinola.

"Oh sure!" came the chorus.

"But, let's see her when you get her," chuckled Isaacs.

"I'll do that," promised Brasso. "Let's have the pic back now, and let's study a bit."

"O.K., here you are," assented Deacon, handing a radio pamphlet describing a Hallicrafters SX-28 Communications receiver back to the owner.

" $x^2 \div y^2 = . . .$?" muttered Paycheck.

"Fuel intake, compression, ignition, exhaust," murmured Kentucky.

Academic studies were again delved into by youthful minds, and so, the Hot Stove League closed another class-room discussion.

And, through all this chatter and turmoil, sat Silent Yokum, absorbing more vocabulary to add to his fabulous "Dic."

School Song

We're marching along as we're singing our song,
And the echo will sound in the mountains.
Our scarlet and gold always shine bright and bold
Like the rays of the sun in a fountain.
Let us march in the right
As the wind blows through the trees
In the moon's silver light
Hear us sing the melodies;
We will sing tra-la-la
Till the stormy clouds go by
We will sing tra-la-la
And show our praise for Tashme High!

THE HOUSE SYSTEM

AFTER a prolonged period of pros and cons on the subject, the matter of a School House System was finally adopted by the Students' Council and introduced to the student body on April 17, 1945. This idea was first brought to light at a General Assembly of the school, in early February, when Reg Mori made a motion, which was seconded by Arnie Arai, that the school adopt the House System. During the discussion, Jim Shino made an amendment, which was seconded by Mr. Best, that the matter be carried to the Executive Council. Contrary to general belief, this plan at first did not prove exceptionally popular, the main being, lack of time, and just simply lack of time. The weeks following this suggestion were hectic ones, with the unwelcome appearance of the Easter Exams, and for a short time, all talk of a House System was laid on the shelf. As soon as they were over, however, discussion was resumed, and it was discovered that the pros overruled. Consequently, three houses came into existence, namely, Alpha, Beta, and Gamma.

Next came the question of the method that should be used in the organization and division of the Houses. One that would be fair as well as practicable was needed, and more pow-wow followed. The plan that was finally agreed upon involved little work and fair results. First, the roll call of each class was numbered off into groups of three, with all ones in Alpha House, all twos in Beta House, and all three in Gamma House. Resulting break-ups of inseparable companions aroused a certain degree of moaning and groaning, but on the whole, everyone showed satisfaction and a fervent sigh of relief went up from the Students' Council.

On April 17th, the first house assemblies were held, and it was found that there were approximately 60 students and 4 teachers in each house. At this meeting, two house captains, and basketball and softball captains were chosen, with the following results: Alpha House—Capt., Vic Kadonaga; Vice-capt., Miveko Yasunaka; Basketball, Mits Watanaba and George Inata; Softball, Michiyo Nishimura and Kaoru Matsumiya.

Beta House—Capt., Ryoichi Nishikawa; Vice-capt., Mary Oki; Basketball, Emiko Yanagawa and Takemi Taguchi; Softball, Emiko Kato and Hiraio Miwa.

Gamma House—Capt., Tadao Kawasaki; Vice-capt., Fumi Sasaki; Basketball, Kiyoka Morishita and Tatsuo Hori; Softball, Fumi Okubo and Thomas Hatashita.

The sponsors are as follows:

Alpha: Miss W. McBride; Beta: Miss M. McLachlan and Mr. E. Best; Gamma: Miss K. Greenbank.

During the last two weeks in April, furious inter-house basketball games ran full blast. It was a common sight to see players, fans, and rooters, hurrying towards the recreation hall, in various stages of agitation. Such confident remarks as: "We'll win!" could be heard; answered by an equally confident, "I wonder!"

NOVEMBER 2.

Softly diffused lights, decked with the red and gold school colours and the school insignia pinned at the front of the hall, set the stage for the first social event held this term. About 135 students and teachers turned out for the gala occasion which proved, as the evening progressed, to be a great success.

Tempting music lured the shy but eager Grade-niners onto the floor, while the more experienced Grade-tenners and veteran upper classes displayed their talent with a superior air. Tag dances, ladies' choices, lemon passings with hilarious consequences, added spice to the varied programme. (Bibbe N. shook in his boots when he really thought that he had to give three kisses to Barbara O.—only handed her three "kiss candies!") "Pop" and refreshments were served buffet style and how they disappeared!

After comments of several Grade-niner boys—"Gee, wish I had got on the floor sooner."

DECEMBER 15.

Beginners, Sonje Henie followers, and hockey enthusiasts, all trekked down to the Lake for their first "taste" of the ice this year. It was enjoyable skating on the mirror-like lake, which was surrounded with snow-covered mountains and glistening, white trees.

Loud shouts from hockey players, screams from unsteady girls and the general laughter of the crowd rent the air. Many took their lunch and stayed till the early part of the evening. Though tired and weary, all agreed that it had been a pleasantly spent afternoon. We are proud to note that our teachers, Miss Greenbank, Miss McLachlan and Mr. Best, can skate—and I do mean skate!

Forty-two

The long awaited Christmas Social opened its doors to a large crowd of merry-making students and instructors. Everyone was given paper hats to put on—and didn't the boys look cute?

For the occasion, brightly decorated red and green streamers, coloured lights, and fresh green cedar boughs added a touch of the Christmas atmosphere.

The Grand March led by our Principal, Miss Greenbank, and President Reggie Mori got everyone "in the Groove."

During the evening, gifts were presented to the teachers by the P. T. C. representatives. Mr. G. Nakayama, chairman took charge of the presentations.

Light refreshments and pop were served to the hungry crowd. (Did you see the scramble for that luscious chocolate cake? M.Y. of Class I baked it). The three fortunate winners of the lucky membership draw were the following students: Henry Oki, Sam Watanabe, and Nobby Tanouye.

Quite noticeable at this mixer was the smoothness of all dancers. Before, the grades demanded nothing but boogie-woogie, jazz, or jitterbug, but now they all have come to appreciate the slow fox-trots. However, as yet, they do not seem to appreciate waltz music—then why were SIX straight waltzes played in a row?

The Class II boys, full of school spirit, were seen sporting scarlet and gold bow ties.

JANUARY 18.

After the general meeting, an informal dance was held in "D" Building. A unique novelty in the form of decorated red and gold lanterns adorned the hall.

Smoothies and "hep-cats" waltzed and jived to the latest popular platters played on the P. A. system. Did you see that certain gentleman in Grade Ten trying his "pivot" on the much bewildered girls? Mr. G.I., master of the "walking step," had the vocational class following suit. The grade-niners, bolder and more confident than ever, danced in their own special way with a few jivers "jammin'" it out.

The tag dances were popular and the boys really "went to town." What lucky gal had so many cut-ins that she couldn't quite remember whom she danced with?

The semi-classical, five minute "Skater's Waltz" was the hit of the evening. Can Mr. Best waltz, and how!

This dance was even a greater success than the previous ones and concluded the duties of the first term Social Committee.

Many couples were seen hobbling home, with complaints of over-exertion of the sensitive "les pïeds."

MARCH 2.

Under the sponsorship of the new social committee headed by Kats Sakamoto and Mits Watanabe, a large crowd enjoyed a Pre-Spring frolic.

Prexy Charlie Yoshida and Associate-President Josie Yano led the Grand March. With such super-solid music by Benny Goodman, Artie Shaw, etc., blaring forth, it took little time for the stagline to disappear.

Novelties, such as musical chairs, elimination, tag, and lemon passings had everyone on the floor. Tired and hungry couples took time off to rest their weary dogs, at the same time indulging in soft drinks and light refreshments. After everyone was satisfied, we continued our dancing. A certain grade-niner who executed the "Slocan style" had many an astonished girl a-flutter.

Fashion note: Bobby-soxers in red or white pullovers.

Chess and Checker Club

The Chess and Checker Club was organized in April, under the sponsorship of Reggie Mori.

Since there are only a few chess sets, the club has been limited to twenty-one members—some were experts; others, beginners. Every Friday from 7 p.m., we meet at the Boy Scouts' den to enjoy ourselves.

The officers elected were: President, Hideo Nishihata; Secretary, Koji Morishita. Kean competition in chess is carried out by the use of the "ladder system." The "ladder system" is a system whereby any person, whose name plate is on the "ladder," challenges one of the three persons listed above him; if he wins, he changes position with the defender. The object of this system is to reach the top of the ladder.

Current Events Club

Again this year, there is a Current Events Club, which is held for the benefit of the students taking the Social Studies V course and for those others who are interested in keeping informed about the world news.

Reverend W. R. McWilliams, with Mr. Best assisting, leads the group, twice a month on Friday evenings at 6:30 p.m.

The first part of the session is spent with Reverend W. McWilliams reading well-chosen articles from Time, News-week, Christian Monitor, Readers Digest, and other magazines or newspapers. Then, the gathering goes into an informal discussion of the material.

Other Clubs

Here is a brief review of the other clubs around the school, which started late this year.

General Science Club—This club, sponsored by Miss McBride, is composed mostly of the students in Grade X, XI, and XII who are taking the General Science course. Miss McBride is well qualified in this field.

Handicraft Club—The Handicraft Club is divided into three groups: Tatting, Crocheting, and Knitting. Emphatically "Yes!" there are also boys in this club. (Getting an early start on homelife—San-shiro?) By the end of the term the members expect to show with pride their doilies, table cloths, laces, stockings, etc. No sponsor.

Public Speaking Clubs—"Mr. Chairman, Honourable Judges, Worthy Opponents, Fellow Students—hear ye, hear ye."

Under the guidance of Mr. Best, a number of students learn the "How's and Why's" of Public Speaking. Everyone at one time or another has to stand in front of the group to say his bit.

Glee Club—Since the majority of them cannot go to the Music Appreciation sessions on Saturdays, the older students get together to sing their hearts out. (With apologies to Lily Pons). No Sponsor.

REGGIE MORI.

AS WE look back to 1943 when the Music Appreciation Club was originally formed, we are proud to note that since then, there has been a great improvement. The outset, with only a small crowd not more than 40 students gathered around a battery radio connected to a gramophone, witnessed our first appreciation of fine music. Under the kind guidance of our sponsors, Miss McLachlan and Mr. Best, we were drawn into the "Land of Classical Music," with the introduction of the ever popular, "Tchaikowsky's Concerto in B Flat Minor" with which we were already familiar. In contrast, we listened to a lighter type, "Ah Still Suits Me," sung by Paul Robeson, which immediately became popular. The enjoyment and success of that first afternoon were so great that we decided to continue this programme every Saturday afternoon, as an extra-curricular activity.

Since then, through the help of our sponsors and support received by donations received from outside people interested in our school venture, the purchase of various records has been possible. Now in 1945, our collection has been doubled, amounting to over 100 pieces. We can hardly believe that we have a wonderful cabinet radio in addition to our vast collection of records. We are glad that there has been a great increase in the number of ardent listeners since the arrival of the new classes of Grade 9 students.

The past Music Committee, which consisted of Wally Fukumoto (convener), Terrie Machida (assistant), Kaz Fukumoto, Henry Oki, Ronnie Nishimura, Katsumi Sakamoto and Shin Fujino, met every Friday evening to make up our weekly programme. Now the new committee with Amy Shimizu as convener, Harley Hatanaka, Mike Seki, Sachi Nishihara, Takashi Nakamura and Tokuko Sugiyama presents us with interesting variations. Usually the programme opens with some great composition of Beethoven, Tchaikowsky, Schubert or Mozart.

Let us take a glimpse into the Music Appreciation Club which is just about to commence. In opening, we are given a short life story of Schubert, whose masterpiece, "The Unfinished Symphony" is about to be played. As they are quite familiar with it, everyone seems to be engrossed in the music. Next, we are presented with one of the new numbers, "The Frasquita Srenade," which is of a much lighter type. Yes, it's Gladys Swarthout, our favorite vocalist next, singing a semi-classical version of "Smoke Gets In Your Eyes." The fourth selection is that ever popular "Andante Contabile" played by the Budapest String Quartet. The very beautiful theme taken from this is the old time hit song, "On the Isle of May." Jascha Heifitz, one of the greatest violinists, contributes to our enjoyment with that tune "Rondo" which is welcomed by everyone. Next, the lilting melodies of "Neapolitan Nights" played by the Victor Salon Orchestra fill the room. As the afternoon nears its end, we are granted two record requests. Pandemonium reigns for a few minutes as everyone attempts to shout for the one he wishes, but the final choices with the students are "Skater's Waltz" and "Rendez-vous." As both of these are popular, we hum and sway to the melodious tunes. We find to our regret that the music hour is over, and so we wind up another absorbing afternoon with that solemn number "In a Monastery Garden."

Some of the most recent additional records are: "Moonlight Waltz" and "Southern Rose Waltz" by Viennese Waltz Orchestra, "Artist's Life," "I Love You Truly" and "La Golondrina," by Wayne King and his Orchestra, "At Dawning" and "A Perfect Day" sung by Nelson Eddy, "Song of India," "On Wings of Song" sung by Richard Crooks, "Toreador Song" sung by Lawrence Tibbet, and "Glow Worm" by Victor Concert Orchestra.

As the Music Appreciation Club progresses on its way, our love for the beauty of music increases, and we are gradually learning to appreciate the true value of fine music.

Class Three Registrations—Continued

- KAWAI, KIYOSHI (Jimmie)—He strums the guitar and plays the harmonica. However, the orchestration of Benny Goodman must have prompted Jimmie, because he now longs to become a band leader and play the clarinet.
- KOBAYASHI, TAKASHI—"Hogi the Koby" works in the power house figuring out Maths equations. There, he evidently sees more light than we do.
- MASUMIYA, KAORU (Titch)—The "V" man who is present physically but never mentally. "Titch" sacks sawdust at the saw-mill, but on a baseball diamond, he is the ace first-sacker.
- NAGAO, YOSHIAKI (Sbarkey)—His big feet, big hands and big smile remind us of Lil Abner. The only things not associated with the Yokums are his not eating Cream of Wheat or pickled turnips. Now why is this?
- NISHIYAMA, MAKIO (Mac)—This grease monkey at 15 Mile camp wants to become a father—of all things! Studying Industrial Maths and Automotive Engineering. Strums the guitar and yodels "Mac in the Saddle Again!" (Ouch!).
- OMORI, SHIGEO (Weiner)—A diminutive bundle of energy seen everywhere with a perpetual grin on his face. Works at 15 Mile camp as "flunky." He never works and never studies which cause the boss to scorch him plenty. "Poor, fried Weiner!"
- SEKI, MIKE—He likes the way a certain maiden sings her warbling lyric. Mike wants to become manager of a large Match Box Co. Maybe he intends to become the "big-noise" all of a sudden.
- SHIBATANI, SHOJI—Glenn Miller holds no mortal fear for this tin shop apprentice working on Bacon Ave. He registers medium, dark and handsome with the fair sex.
- SHIRAKAWA, KEN (Mad Russian)—Stew is his favorite dish; boogie-woogie, his favorite pastime. He "stews" in intricate engineering problems.

- TAKASHIMA, SUMIKO—Another Ronald Reagan fan. Wishes she could grow in height and do something to stop her from blushing so often. Has collecting snapshots as a hobby.
- URAIAMI, SHIGEO—Tallest boy in our class and blessed with brains. Prefers Betty Grable to other blondes (brave boy to admit it—Harry James, you better watch out!) Wants to become a book-keeper.
- WATANABE, MITSUKO—A lover of semi-classics like "Skater's Waltz." Takes commercial course and hopes to become a stenographer. Is a staunch fan of Turhan Bey and Toshio Hosokawa.
- YAMAMOTO, TERUMI—The present secretary in the Students' Council. Goes for Star Weekly novels in a big way. Has an unusual ambition—to become a combination of nurse and teacher.
- YANAGAWA, FUMI—
Tall, slim and slick, there she stands,
Benny Goodman's her favourite band;
Of Robert Stack she dreams all day,
Yet gets her homework done, okay.

THE greater number of High School students this year has resulted in an increase of school sports. The Students' Council has supported the Committee which looks after the sports, with the amount required for the purchase of equipment being given to the group. There have been selected two sports conveners, one heading the boys and the other heading the girls. These two conveners with the help of eight other representatives chosen from the various classes meet together and arrange the sports schedule for the school.

Every Friday and Saturday from three to six o'clock, the recreation hall is open for the High School students. Here, they play basketball, table tennis, or listen to records. At present, we have equipment only for basketball, table tennis and hockey, but soon we are expecting to purchase other equipment suitable for sports which can be played outdoors in warmer weather.

BOYS' SPORTS

The following are the names of the boys who were chosen for the Sports Committee during the two terms:

FIRST TERM

Convener — BOB YONEDA
Representatives: Class 1, 2, 3, Kik Sumi;
Class 4, Ryoichi Nishikawa; Class 5, Tosh
Ogaki.

SECOND TERM

Convener — ARNOLD ARAI
Representatives: Class 1, 2, Mickey Hayakawa; Class 3, Kaoru Matsumiya; Class 5,
Jimmy Morita; Class 6, Bob Yoneda.

HOCKEY

Early in December, all boys who were interested in ice-hockey had a meeting and formed four teams to make up a School Hockey League. Each team played only three games to finish off the league schedule because of the undependable ice condition. Although the fellows did not have much time to get into tip-top shape, every game had plenty of action and team work.

GIRLS' SPORTS

The following are the teams which were picked:

TEAM ONE

Ben Sakamoto, Captain
Tats Mori
Mike Seki
Jim Shino
Jack Nakamura
Yoshi Funamoto
Tak Nakamura
Kaz Fakumoto
Yosh Misumi
Tak Kobayashi
Bob Yoneda

TEAM TWO

Jim Morita, Captain
Tom Hatashita
Tom Sumida
Louis Ikeda
Kiyoshi Kawai
Isamu Watanabe
Bibble Nagao
Harold Miwa
Kiyoshi Doi
Eichi Nishizawa

TEAM THREE

Tad Kawasaki, Captain
Tsutomu Nakayama
Junso Funamoto
Harley Hatanaka
Koji Morishita
Shozo Imai
Arnold Arai
Charlie Ogaki
Tosh Nakamura
Joe Shin
Bill Takahashi

TEAM FOUR

Tats Koyanagi, Captain
Tiny Taguchi
Ryoichi Nishikawa
Tosh Ogaki

Kiyo Shibatani
Tsutomu Kawabe
Mike Honda
Ko Kadonaga

Hideo Nishihata
Hatsuo Uchida
Wally Fukumoto

The game results were as follows:

Team 1 (4) — Team 3 (0)
Team 4 (6) — Team 2 (4)
Team 1 (2) — Team 4 (2)

Team 2 (4) — Team 3 (2)
Team 4 (3) — Team 3 (0)
Team 2 (4) — Team 1 (1)

The clever stick-handling of Jim Morita was a treat to watch as was the slick work of Ben Sakamoto, Jim Shino, George Inata, Hideo Nishimura, Tom Sumida, Thomas Hatashita, and Louis Ikeda.

End-to-end rushes were quite frequently seen, the majority being made by Mr. Best, whose aggressive tactics were hard on the lighter players.

Spectacular goal-tending was also displayed. Hats Uchida promises to become a star goalie next season.

After one of the scheduled matches, an exhibition game between the Vocationals and the Combines (Gr. IX and X) was held. Both teams played well with tricky combinations and team work.

At the conclusion of the hockey season a committee of four met for the purpose of naming two "All-Star" teams. After the balloting, the players were nominated in the following order:

FIRST TEAM

Goal Hats Uchida
R. Defence Jim Shino
L. Defence Thomas Hatashita
Centre Ben Sakamoto
R. Wing Jim Morita
L. Wing Tad Kawasaki

SECOND TEAM

Goal Jockey Nakamura
R. Defence Tiny Taguchi
L. Defence Louis Ikeda
Centre Ryoichi Nishikawa
R. Wing Tom Sumida
L. Wing Tats Koyanagi

TABLE TENNIS

We hope to form a table tennis league, as soon as the survey is completed. There are quite a few enthusiasts, who have style and ability. Those who are outstanding are Charlie Yoshida, George Inata, Kid Suki, Chick Kageyama, Shin Fujino, Tats Hori, and Tad Kawasaki.

BASKETBALL

Basketball followers are eagerly awaiting the formation of a league. Players in this sport are too numerous to mention but the calibre of the number is high and should prove a tough match against other schools.

BOB YONEDA.

ONENESS and co-operation have borne fruit in this field. Yes, the girls have put forth thoughts, efforts, and talents and have created a period in which to have good fun and exercise.

From late in the school's first term, the convener, Sachi Nishihara, and assistants Kiyo Morishita, Timmie Yamamoto and Miyeko Yasunaka began the get-togethers on alternate Fridays and Saturday when the buildings were at their disposal. At first their efforts at organization of a regular system were credited only by the attendance of a few active girls. The main attractions were badminton for those who had their own racquets and shuttlecocks, ping-pong, and dodge ball. But, as time wore on, others became interested and although of irregular attendance all became a little more organized.

During the winter months when skating was the main cry of the season, the outdoor lovers were lured down to the lake to slip and skid on the all-too-slippery ice. Among these were the followers of "Sonja Henie's" style who rank as professionals, while others were found having a hard time staying on their feet.

The beginning of the second term saw a great improvement in this section of the extra-curricular activities. The committee which includes Christine Uno, convener, Kiyoko Morishita, Sumi Kadoguchi and Mary Oye, assistants, are found supervising to their best ability the now larger gatherings, and looking after the all too sparse equipments. The teams which have since been organized for basketball find the opposition quite daring and as usual there are the murmured complaints from the sidelines. The ping-pong players go at their game with equal zest and have their own fun and troubles. These weekly games, however, have already witnessed the rise of many excellent players—those who specialize in their respective sports and others who are all-round sports.

As for the coming summer months, we are looking forward to the time when the solid ground will enable more outdoor sports. The three Houses which are now being organized with each class divided between them should make possible some friendly yet spirited rivalry. We hope that all hibernating drones will turn out and make sports as prominent an activity as they have their studies.

HIDEO MATSUI.

Teachers' Registrations

MISS KATHERINE GREENBANK, B.A.—Miss Greenbank, our principal, is a native of Moosomin, Saskatchewan. After graduating from the University of Manitoba, she joined the Women's Missionary Society and in 1920 she went to Japan. Miss Greenbank spent her first year studying in Tokyo and the next four, teaching in Shizuoka. She then went to the Yamanashi Girls' School in Kofu, where she taught 'til the outbreak of the war. Miss Greenbank returned to Canada on the last Gripsholm exchange, then coming to Tashme after a short holiday.

In the twenty odd years Miss Greenbank spent in all parts of Japan, she has been on furlough three times and has been to Korea. She was able to study in the Teacher's College in New York on her last furlough.

The study of birds and flowers is her pet love, with nature, poetry, and china-ware coming a close second. Of sports, she chooses basketball and tennis as her favourites.

MISS MAY McLACHLAN, B.A.—Miss McLachlan, commonly called Miss "Mac" by her students, was our first teacher and is largely responsible for the successful setting-up of our High School. She was born in Pipestone, Manitoba, and graduated from Brandon College. After a spell of teaching, she went to Japan, and did some Young People's work. She returned to Canada on the first Gripsholm, and before she could settle down to enjoy a long deserved holiday, she was sent to Tashme. For a while, she undertook the huge job of supervising all High School classes.

MISS WINNIFRED McBRIDE, B.Sc.—One of the latest to join the ranks of our hard-working staff, Miss McBride obligingly stated that she was born in DePue, Illinois. Date? (We didn't ask). At the age of eight, however, she came to Canada, and attended schools at Victoria and Ladysmith on the Island. A graduate of U.B.C., her aspiration is to specialize in plant diseases, to become a "Plant Doctor." After one year of work in this line, she spent three years as a chemist in a fish laboratory.

Last summer, she came to our Girls' Summer Camp to act as assistant counsellor, and, fortunately for us, she agreed to come to Tashme and teach. At present she presides over the Science, Health, and Algebra classes.

MR ERNEST E. BEST, M.A.—Mr. Best, our genial blonde teacher, was born in the city of Toronto. There he attended Victoria College at the University of Toronto for five years, majoring in Philosophy and Theology. Although most of his years have been spent in school, he has travelled to New York, has lived in Washington, D.C., and has crossed the border six times. His pet word is "genii" and pet saying is "Come, come my fine feathered friend."

Mr. Best takes a great interest in all sports—his favourites being boating, horseback riding, and skiing, which he has given up for the duration.

MISS YUKI ARAI—Miss Arai attended John Oliver High School in Vancouver and was working in the city before evacuation. She earns her living by teaching Grade 8 at the Elementary School but still finds time to be the Vice-President of the T.Y.O., a C.G.I.T. leader, a Sunday School teacher and the High School's Home Economics teacher.

MRS. K. SAKAMOTO—Mrs. Sakamoto, jointly with Miss Arai, teaches the cooking part of the Home Economics course to approximately twelve of the High School girls. Mrs. Sakamoto is also the Elementary School's cooking teacher.

MISS FUSAKO KOJIMA—Miss Kojima, who is the Elementary School's sewing teacher, demonstrates the handicraft to the High School girls who are taking the Home Economics course.

COMMERCIAL TEACHERS

MRS. W. INOUE—Former principal of the Tashme Elementary School and our Shorthand instructress. Mrs. Inoue is the original founder of The First Tashme Girl-Guide Company. We all miss her very much, and wish her luck and happiness.

MISS MARIE KAWAMOTO—A "school-marm" at the Elementary School, and at night, she occupies the position as Shorthand, Bookkeeping and Typing instructress. When her work is done, you'll find her tating a doiley, reading a book, or dancing to the latest hit tunes.

MISS KAY MACHIDA—Popular Typing teacher to the Grade Niners, this versatile ex-Vancouverite and lady of leisure occupies her spare time as Girl-Guide lieutenant. She also crochets and dances for her own pleasure.

MISS CHISA OYE—Successor to Mrs. Inoue. An all-round sport, Miss Oye work in the Post Office. She is one of Tashme's talented songstresses, and an ardent swing-classic fan.

Mrs. T. UYEDA—Besides teaching Art III to the Grade Niners, Mrs. Uyeda is a Grade Six teacher at the Elementary School. Her remaining time is spent in being a housewife. She succeeded Mrs. Inoue as the principal of the Elementary School.

MISS OMIYE YANO—Our quiet and friendly Grade Nine Bookkeeping teacher works in the Commission office. Her favourite pastime is crocheting. On Sunday she plays the piano for the United Church Sunday School.

Acknowledgments

As the second edition of the "NISEI LYCEE" goes to press, we say "ari-gato" to the following, who spiritually or practically, have helped the Editorial Board to publish a much larger edition: Mr. Yamaga, Mr. Kamimura, Miss C. Oye, Miss M. Kawamoto, Mrs. T. Uyeda, Mrs. W. Inouye, Mr. Shigo Yoshido, Shinwa-kai, and Photocraft (Winnipeg); to Rev. W. McWilliams and Rev. W. Gale who inquired to the printers about our needs; to Mr. Jo Seko who donated the class photos; to Miss Martha Hori who did the lino-cutting of the fly leaves and the sub-heading; and an especially big bouquet to Mr. Kaz Oiyee, who though three thousand miles away, has shown the "ol' school spirit" to cut the cover lino and to contribute a guest essay. To you old advertisers who again faithfully bought space, and to the new advertisers who supported the Annual by purchasing page areas, the Editor simply say, "Thank you." To the Students, we say "Patronize our Advertisers!"

Class Six Registrations

ADACHI, JEAN —

Makes people wonder what she'll be, An optimist full o' 'bility,
No time for boys is what she'll claim, Studyin' just for fun or fame?

FUNAMOTO, YOSHIO —

His fav'rite subject must be math, And grammar also?—one might ask;
Quiet and shy, but willing and bright, Plays the guitar, this ex-Van-ite.

HATASHITA, THOMAS —

You can guess his favourite sport; It's neither "wolfin'" nor "jammin' it out,"

Nor even studying hard at times, But often scoring a 4-base clout!

HONDA, MASAYUKI —

A doctor of "Foolosophy," At pres-nt studyin' Biology;
To be a blacksmith is his wish; Or humourin' gals—his favourite dish.

IIDA, AYAKO —

Her earnest pastime is to swot, And getting "A" is in her lot;
A lovely voice, and full of life, But wants to be a good house-wife.

ISHIKAWA, LILY —

Ever smiling is this lassie, All for J. F. (lucky laddie!)
Her pet saying is, "But surely!"; And her lovely hair is curly.

KADONAGA, EDITH —

Ardent fan of "Calling All Girls!"; Tries all styles to keep her curls;
A pic of "Frankie" 'dorns her wall, Is he corney?—not at all!

KAKUMASU, SUMIYE —

A cheeful friendly girl; we know She wants to pass in Latin I;
Her ambition is to nurse, And she can do it, it's been done!

KATO, EMIKO —

This calm gal is plenty smart; A dazzling smile to turn your heart;
Our Social Rep. who seems to know How not to make us say, "Oh, no!"

KATO, NAOMI —

A silent lass Who's sure to pass
In her ambition: Matriculation!

MASUDA, JEAN —

Tall and slender is our "Jean"; In fashions she is truly queen;
'Member "Alice Blue Gown" last year, When she sang with a voice so clear?

MATSUI, HIDEKO —

Petite damsel, the best by far, What form you have—a rising star,
Teaching school you hope to be? The stage will get, just you see!

MATSUMURA, YAEKO —

Little in size, but always seen; And ever saying, "Gee, you're mean," Possibilities she has, To be a "'gate" like sister "Mas."

MIWA, HAROLD —

Yo' might get tired o' yore pal, Yo' might get tired o' yore gal;
But don't yo' ever "git tire", Pardner, o' yore guitar?

MIYATA, RURIKO —

"Lulu" must be five-feet-five, But not the type to do the jive;
She's studious and quite reserved, And has no boy friends—how absurd!

NAKAMURA, JACK —

Quiet and shy, yet nice to all, Hobbies?—hockey and baseball;
Might be bright, you ne'er can tell, For behind the desk he studies well.

NAKANO, GEORGE —

An up and coming mathematician, Architecture, his ambition;
Even tempered, pleasant voice: Popular with all the boys.

NAKANO, AYAKO —

First Aid Nursing is her aim, A popular girl who's always same;
From Maple Ridge she came this way, To start again another day.

NISHIHATA, HIDEO —

A little guy with lots of brains; His pastime is to humour dames;
An actor he be of some note, For famous lines he's known to quote.

NISHIMURA, KIMIKO —

Good humored and a lot of fun, She is liked by everyone,
Note that boy in "Harlem Swing 'Em," Isn't he your "B.M.," eh, Kim?

NISHIMURA, MICHIO —

"You're not funny, see?" she says, And "X" is where her future is;
She wants to be a secretary, But is she pretty? Oh, yes, very!

NISHIMURA, RONALD —

Hep to jive and disc-collecting, And strictly solid jitterbugging;
Here's a Joe that's in the groove; He's got more than we can prove!

NISHIMURA, SETSUKO —

Another future would-be-wife, Headed for domestic life;
She likes to cook, to knit, to sew, Now, who will be her lucky beau?

OMOTANI, MIEKO —

Full of fun and lots of noise, Favourite partner of all the boys;
A certain S.S. makes her sigh, She's always seen with best pal Yae.

SAKAMOTO, BEN —

Here is some one nice to know, Dark, handsome, and a Romeo;
Does he find his homework hard, Dreamin' about the Boulevard?

SASAGUCHI, KIEKO —

So silent is this studious lass, You'd scarcely know she's in the class,
But when it comes to low-down jive, My, oh, my, she's quite alive!

SETO, TAKAKO —

Everything always tidy and neat: Appearance—cheerful, quiet, petite;
As a student she's 1-A; To sing like Pons she hopes someday.

SHIBATANI, KIYOSHI —

To all his friends he's just plain "Shibi," As yet he's small, but he'll grow (mebbe),

This cherished hope is his decision— A southpaw pitcher of recognition.

SHIMIZU, KEIKO —

In class she's one of our quietest girls, How nice and neat she has her curls!
She studies typing earnestly, To be (I wonder who's) secret'ry?

SHIN, JOE —

"Joe the beau" is on the go, Always ready for his oration;
Don't blame him if he says sometimes, "Doggone, I've lost all ambition."

SUGIYAMA, TOKUKO —

Her one wish—to finish school, Her hobby—on the piano to fool;
Good at high-jumpin' and such; Her pet remark is "Like so much!"

TAGECHI, TAKEMI —

Ah, here's a fellow who's gentle to all, Nicknamed "Tiny," though not so small;

Ambition—to join the Lonely Hearts club, A wizard in sports—he needs no sub.

TAMURA, TERUAKI —

The strong and silent type will reap, For still water, it is said, runs deep,
His sole desire is to grow, To win that certain femme, you know.

TONOGAI, SEINOSHIN —

People call his "Seino" for short, He's somewhat tall, but not alert;
Says "nah" quite often. His pastime—sleep; Ambition—a secret he wants to keep.

UNO, MITSUKO —

A modest maiden you will find To be co-operative and kind;
Silent brainwave of the class, The boys go for this pretty lass.

UYEDE, HARRY —

Tall, dark and handsome—he, The gals all listen to him with glee;
You'll always find him snappily clad, He's really quite a sociable lad.

WATANABE, SETSUKO —

A nice complexion, a graceful walk, Some guys to her would like to talk;
Reluctant—you will find her never, Ambitious—she is just as ever.

YANO, RUTH —

Ever cheerful is this lassie, Always smiling, never sassy;
Her future is to marry—who knows? Destination—wherever HE goes.

YONEDA, BOB —

Ready, willing, and able is he, This Sports Convener from 9B;
Always ready to answer questions, A Mighty man of much ambitions.

RELOCEES

Irene Kudo—working in a dress shop with Mrs. Tsuyuki in Montreal. Kaz Oye, last year's Art Editor, is studying at Guelph Collegiate Vocational Institute (what a dignified name!), Grade 12B. During off-hours, he works in the Home-wood Sanitorium for his room and board. As usual, his room is cluttered with linos, tools, paints, etc. George Watanabe is driving a "cat" for Mr. McGuigan in Blenheim, Ont. It's a fruit farm with lots of peaches—(which ones?). Tough that you can't go to school, George. Yukio Nakamura left for Hamilton in late February and is now attending Central Hamilton Collegiate. Lots of luck in your future endeavours, Yukie! Charlie and Tosh Ogaki departed for Hamilton in early April. Also in Hamilton, Kazuo Nakamura is working in a box factory. Harry Uyede is now residing in Scarboro Junction, Ont. They're living on a mushroom farm (lucky guy!). Tsuneo Omotani is working on a section gang at Twin Butte, B.C. Also working on the C.P.R. section gang is Tamotsu Sugiyama.

And, soon hitting the Eastern trail will be the Machida clan—Miss K. Machida, Grace and sister Terrie (parlez-vous Francais, Mademoiselles?). They will reside in Montreal.

The greatest defeat would be letting bitter thoughts or despair gain control of our hearts. The greatest victory would be keeping our spirits free from the temptation to criticize or to hate, that we might the better serve humanity in humility and love. The greatest asset with which to face the future is that freedom from self, which enables us to use all our powers to create a truer spirit of co-operation among all classes of men; which enables us to give our lives to the fight for a world where there shall be no discrimination, no superiority or inferiority, but where all shall have the liberty and equality of brothers.

If we have learned to take it all, not with just a grim, dogged endurance but with the added grace of tolerance, nay, even of gratitude, 'welcoming each rebuff' and turning it to account, then we shall have found among these eternal hills, the secret of true living and, though the suffering may have made our hearts bleed, we shall be able to face, with steadfast courage and calm assurance, whatever the future holds for us.

KATHERINE M. GREENBANK,
Principal.

Koji: "Say, dad, can I borrow your car tonight? I got a date."

Dad: "Sure, but there's no gas in the tank."

Koji: "That's alright, I didn't want to drive too long."

Fudge: "So you got fired, eh?"

Son: "No, I had to quit on account of sickness."

Fudge: "Sickness? What's the matter?"

Son: "The boss got sick of me."

Police: "You're under arrest for stealing that rug."

Jean: "I did not steal it."

Police: "Then why is the rug in your room?"

Jean: "The lady whom I work for told me to take this rug out and beat it."

George: "Oh, my darling, your beauty is attracting me."

Grace: "So! You're insulting me that I'm a magnet, eh? Well, goodbye!"
